PROFILE

From a young age, I have consistently been in contact with computers, which sparked my passion for computer science. Over time, this interest deepened, compelling me to improve and continually seek out new areas of knowledge. More recently, I have developed a particular interest on operating systems, area I'm working on to improve and which I consider fundamental to my professional growth. My current aim is to expand these skills in challenging projects.

WORK EXPERIENCE

SINFO

May 2025 – Current

- Currently working in the largest free tech conference in Portugal, organized by the students of Instituto Superior Técnico, as a frontend developer within the Software Development team.

DIGITAL SKILLS

- Great knowledge in OOP languages like Kotlin and Java, Git and REST APIs
- Good experience in full stack development, Javascript, Typescript, frameworks React and Spring
- Decent knowledge in embedded systems, low level coding like C and Assembly x86, framework gRPC

COMMUNICATION AND INTERPERSONAL SKILLS

- Strong communication and interpersonal skills
  - Developed through my natural extroversion and people-oriented approach, I have enhanced my ability to communicate effectively and build strong relationships.
- Great enthusiasm for my field and a commitment to constant professional growth
- Leadership and teamwork ability
  - Through my university's approach of requiring group projects, I have gained practical experience in leading teams and collaborating with others.
- Willingness to step out of my comfort zone and tackle new challenges

CONFERENCES AND SEMINARS

[25/02/2013] Lisboa

O planeta, o teu bairro e a tua praia.

In 2013, when I was nine years old, I talked as part of the TEDxKids conference at the Fábrica de Eletricidade in Lisbon. You can find a brief description on the website below, in the "Miguel Sanches" section
